I've worked in the technology industry for over 10 years and I have been mystified by the governments apparent attempt(through obvious competitor funding) destroy Microsoft. It is because of their leadership and support for building a common PC platform that we are not still working on disparate and disjoint systems and software platforms. My comment on the settlement is that it goes well beyond what I think is necessary or appropriate. Therefore I would request that this be the end of this odyssey and start putting money and focus in a more appropriate place.
